

Mark each of these blocks with the stamp you find in each of the corresponding geocaches. Please leave the rubber stamps and ink pads in the containers for other geocachers to use. The Scott County Geotrot: Geocaching in Horse Country is composed of published geocaches found in locations spread throughout Scott County, Kentucky. You may find them in any order you choose.

For more information go to www.geocaching.com

We hope you enjoyed your journey along the Scott County Geotrot trail. Please return your passport to the Georgetown/Scott County Tourism office during office hours. If the tourism office is closed, please deposit the completed Geotrot passport in the locked box located outside of the tourism office. Don't forget to complete the questions from Georgetown-Scott County Tourism located below. Thank you for visiting!

KENTUCKY Georgetown

SCOTT • COUNTY

City of Sadieville

Steve & Barbara Fox
a.k.a. Ground Fox

Geocaching.com Username: _____
 Name: _____
 Address: _____
 City: _____ State: _____ Zip: _____
 Email Address: _____
 How many people are in your party? _____
 Is this your first trip to Scott County, KY? Yes No
 Was geocaching your main reason for coming to Scott County, KY?

 How much time did you spend in Scott County, KY on this trip?

 How much money did you spend in Scott County, KY on this trip?

 How did you hear about the event?
 Geocaching.com News-Paper Social Media
 Geotrail Items Received: _____ By: _____

1

2

5

10

9

6

7

4

3

11

1. Royal Spring

Royal Spring has been a main source of water in Georgetown since the first settlements in the area. In 1889, the Georgetown Water Works Company was incorporated, and distributed the spring water until the City of Georgetown purchased it in 1945.

2. Georgetown Scott County Museum
Georgetown and Scott County Museum collects, preserves, exhibits and interprets books, records, paper and artifacts or specimens of significant historical and educational interest relating to Scott County history.

3. Ward Hall

Ward Hall is a Greek Revival antebellum plantation mansion built by Junius and Matilda Ward in 1857 as a summer residence. Due to financial reverses following the Civil War, the Wards were forced to sell the plantation in 1867.

4. Great Crossing

Great Crossing received its name because of the buffalo crossing nearby Elkhorn Creek. Today the park amenities include an open area, a boat ramp, picnic shelter, parking areas, and a walking path/nature trail that connects with Western Elementary School.

5. Old Friends Thoroughbred Retirement Farm

This thoroughbred retirement facility provides a dignified retirement for thoroughbreds, champions and "unknowns" whose racing and breeding careers have ended. Former film critic, Michael Blowen, founded this not-for-profit farm in 2003.

6. Georgetown Pavillion

This recreation center has indoor gymnasiums, indoor pools, fitness classes, a fitness area, meeting space and much more.

7. Country Boy Brewing

Country Boy Brewing was founded in February 2012 by four Kentucky boys with a passion for unique craft brews. The co-founders fell in love with brewing while teaching in Japan and opened up their first home-grown craft brewery in Lexington. Country Boy expanded their brewery business in 2017 by building a state-of-the-art brewery and taproom in Georgetown.

8. Sadieville City Park

Sadieville developed the City Park as a center for construction crews for the Cincinnati Southern Railway (CSRR), between Cincinnati and Knoxville. Sadieville gained statewide significance for its important role as a departure point for African American migration to Kansas during the late-1870s. Today, the town contains an impressive collection of late Victorian-era and early twentieth-century commercial and domestic architecture.

10. Rosenwald School

Sadieville Rosenwald School was built 1917-1920 with funds from Julius Rosenwald, philanthropist and president of Sears, Roebuck Co., who built state-of-the-art schools for African-American children across the South. The school remained segregated until 1954. The Sadieville Rosenwald School was closed and the Mount Pleasant Church congregation used it as their fellowship hall. The Mount Pleasant Church closed in 2000. The Rosenwald School was restored with funds from Toyota Manufacturing, Friends of Sadieville, Inc. and the Alice Rosenwald Fund.

11. Georgetown-Scott County Tourism

Welcome to Georgetown on behalf of Georgetown-Scott County Tourism, sponsors of the Scott County Geotrot! Relax, get brochures for nearby attractions, and let our welcome center staff help you map out your visit. Discover our southern hospitality, friendly faces and social atmosphere. Our welcome is authentic and we are glad you're here!
#GotoGtown

PLEASE RETURN YOUR COMPLETED PASSPORT TO GEORGETOWN/SCOTT COUNTY TOURISM TO RECEIVE A PRIZE!
*WHILE SUPPLIES LAST